H. D. Slater, Editor-in-Chief and controling owner, has directed The Herald for 14 years; G. A. Martin is News Editor.

EL PASO HERALD EDITORIAL AND MAGAZINE PAGE

THIRTY-FIRST YEAR OF PUBLICATION

Superior exclusive features and complete news report by Associated Freis Leased Wire and 200 Special Correspondents covering Arizona, New Mexico, West Texas, Mexico, Washington, D. C., and New York.

Fublished by Heraid News Co., Inc.; H. D. Slater (owner of 55 percent) Freal-dent; J. C. Wilmarth (owner of 25 percent) Manager: the remaining 25 percent is owned among 13 stockholders who are as follows: H. L. Capell, H. B. Stevens, J. A. Smith, J. J. Mundy, Waters Davis, H. A. True, Mc-Glennon estate, W. F. Payne, R. C. Canby, G. A. Martin, Felix Martinez, A. L. Sharpe, and John P. Hamsey.

Organizing Miners In Mexico

ADERO has invited the United Mine Workers to organize the people of Mexico who make their livelihood in the mines. It is going to be a sweet task for the organizers who do it, and then it is going to be a sweeter one for the government to maintain order when a strike follows organization, for the Mexican miner is a puzzle, like the Mexican in almost any other walk of life, and unionism has never worked very well with his particular kind of makeup. It either takes on the anti-foreign sentiment or gets so deeply mixed with anarchy, socialism, er rebellion that it is difficult to dig out the real purposes of the original organization.

President Madero may think his people are ripe for such organization, but it is hardly possible that he really does, for Madero, whatever his failings, is generally believed to be pretty well acquainted with the characteristics and peculiarities of his people. He ought to consider well before he acts.

There is no question but that the miners in Mexico could benefit largely by improved working and wage conditions, and if the men themselves were only far enough advanced upon the ladder of intelligence and appreciation to thoroughly understand it all, they might work it out, as workingmen have in the United States, but they are not, and the problem will have to be worked out for them, not by the men interested, at least not for some time to come.

Diaz worked out the problems of his people as best he could, and the nation advanced rapidly under his guidance, but while Diar did so much to benefit his people, he did not prevent his underlings plundering them in a political way. If Madero will continue the same paternal watchfulness inaugurated by Diaz, and at the same time enforce an honest political regime in Mexico, he can do more for the common people than anything else that can be substituted.

Too much organization of individuals with no realization or understanding of personal responsibility, will wreak a greater damage than it will do good among the ordinary laborers of Mexico at the present time. They need as guide a person who is kind, considerate, yet firm.

El Paso certainly is in need of that rescue home proposed by the Salvation Army and the good women of El Paso.

If Lorimer is an honest man, he is one of the most striking examples of how the wicked can bring sorrow to those who will not be their slaves; if he is a wicked man (which many people seem most willing to believe), then he is one of the most consummate actors of the present generation, William Jennings Bryan not excepted.

Deming's Proposed Power Plant

EMING will do well to encourage that proposition to erect a big power plant to generate the energy for the operation of individual pumps in the surrounding country. It has already been demonstrated that the individual power plant can be made to pay in the vicinity of Deming, but with a large central plant to generate the power for all pumps, the power ought to be much cheaper, hence the individual profit to the different participating land owners should be

The plan adopted at Portales, on the other side of the new state, appears to have worked wonderfully well, each farmer bearing his share of the cost of operating the central plant in proportion to the number of acres cultivated and consequently the hours his pump was in operation. Thus, the cost is evenly distributed, and as a regular schedule of pumping hours for the various participating farms is maintained, it is always possible to operate the plant without any loss of energy, the schedule being so arranged that full capacity is always consumed by the individuals. In this manner the cost per man is largely reduced from the figures that would necessarily result from the operation of individual plants, and the same results are obtained.

Deming has as big a pumping proposition as Portales has and there is no reason why Deming should not build and operate one or even several of these community power plants. They could be built with bonds, disposed of on long time payments, at reasonable interest, and thus the land owners would secure power easier than by the present manner of erecting individual engines, which have to be paid for at once or in a few months at most. The annual cost of maintenance and principal and interest on the bonds would be relatively small to each participant in the project and the step would enable many who are not now in a position to cultivate their land because of lack of ready money to buy engines and fuel, to get it into cultivation and make it begin producing at once,

It would not only be a benefit to the individuals but to the entire community to establish such a plant-or several of them-and get things going as soon as possible. The cheaper the water, the more land the farmers can cultivate at a profit, and the sooner they get cheaper water, the sooner will their land become productive and Deming become the great shipping center for the production.

Wonder if Winifred Black had in mind the El Paso "ring" and "anti-ring" generals when she wrote the title for her article "Swimming in Circles"?

It would be a sort of grim joke on the Fourth cavalry if the president should heed the Texas congressman's plea and order the 23d infantry to remain here for asking people to ity to locate her. He awhite longer, especially since the Fourth has already broken up camp and is waiting to move into those nice, warm, rainproof barracks and take possession of those new stables that will soon be completed, after a camping out spell of a year along the Silvery Rio.

For Benefit Of All

HINKING people almost without exception realize that gambling is an economic wrong, a waste of wealth by diversion into wrong channels, a supporting of vicious men and women in idleness upon the earnings of the

More than this, it is a vice, it takes hold of a man and drags him down, it diminishes his capacity to earn an honest living, and leads him into evil associations, debauchery, and, with terrible frequency, into crimes against person of

Hence, it is to the interest of the whole community that gambling be restricted as far as possible.

One-Sentence Philosophy

GLOBE SIGHTS

Life in a small rown isn't so swift as is indicated by the trains which go thyough without stopping.

Does a school teacher ever consider how much clearer her explanations are to herself than to the children? A man who refers to a grown woman as his Baby, deserves to have his letters aired in the halls of justice. A judge who has to watch all the avidence in a case is busier than he looks perched up there on the bench.

LITTLE STORIES.

Some time in life, every boy thinks he wouldn't care much for a job that Washington, says the St. Louis Globe-didn't require a uniform.

Speaker Cannon, at a dinner in Washington, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, praised a Washington phy-"The doctor has a nest way," he said, "of hitting off a case.
"There was a Kentuckian from the blue grass region, you know who called to be treated for a red nose.
"Doctob," the Kentuckian said, what shall I take, sub, to remove the redness of mah nose."
"Take nothing especially between meals," the doctor answered."

A Smiling Rebuke.

A Smiling Rebuke.

A Smiling Rebuke.

At the Metropolitan club says the Met

UNCLE Denatured Poem

HERE'S not much joy in splendor-salt that truth down today; the happiness is slender one gets from vain display. Around town in a motor in majesty I romp, and many a footsore voter doth marvel at my pomp; but all that pomp is phoney-I had a lot more fun on my old Texas pony that cost but little mon. Around the links I teeter and say that golf is great -but those old games were sweeter I played in low estate! My bathroom fairly glitters with costly tub and bowl, but oh, to join the critters down at the swimming hole! By merchants I am trusted, for I have scads to spare, but long ago, when busted, I lacked this load of care. I'm cutting quite a dash in the burg where I shide: I am the glass of fashion throughout the countryside; and all the gilded smarties whose gems are not in pawn come to my famous parties and prance around my lawn. There are a thousand reasons why joy should light my halls, but ob, the happy seasons when I wore overalls!

Copyright, 1911, by George Matthews Adams. Walk Mason

The Daily Horrorscope By T. K. Hedrick

The "Gink" Says:

His goatship, Capricorn, is yet powerful in world affairs, but today his influence is toward discoveries and inventions, particularly along mechanical lines. Those of an inventive turn should woo the spirit thereof today, for ideas of great worth are promised revelation to those who strive for them. Fortune awaits the man who invents or discovers some method of lightening the world's labor, and at the same time enriching it. Don't stop with a labor-saving device-formulate a plan by which it will be made to benefit even those it displaces. To such an inventor the stars promise golden rewards.

(Copyright, 1911, The Adams Newspaper Service.)

The Hustlers

By F. St. Mars.

Short Story

of his leaders, and a lot for the cold nip in the air and the hunger on his inside. He dug his mate in the side, and jaunched out into the air, while his mate followed, protesting. Their way at first lay over the clustered woods still half hidden in slient, dank mist, then unbill to the downs. As they got to this open and higher land, the wind took them, and they were

HAVE YOU SEEN WOMAN WITH NOTCH IN TONGUE? She Also Has Pretty Testh and Is Easy to Get Acquainted With-Husband Is Looking for Ret. A Kansas man's wife has run away and he is sending literature broadenst 35 years, 51-2 feet tall, has mice white teeth and small hands and feet; is folly and talkative and has a notch in tongue which shows when laughing, walks

TWO COCHISE RESIDENTS STRICKEN WITH PARALYSIS

Tombstone, Ariz., Jan. 18. Stricken while at work by a sudden attack of paralysis, which completely disabled her left side, Mrs. W. H. Morris, wife of the proprietor of the International dairy, is in a serious condition at her home three and a half miles northwest of Douglas. Her entire left side was affected by the Another well known Cochise resident was stricken with the same disease. He is Henry Aston, a well known rancher railro and cattleman. Mr. Aston is paralyzed in both legs. His attack is due to an old case of locomotor ataxia.

ON NEW TUCSON DORMITORY

WORK WILL START SOON

Tueson, Ariz., Jan. 18. Work will be started on the erection of a new dor mitory on the campus of the university vertising for bids on the construction of the new darmitnew deemitory, which will be erected on the south side of the campus, next to South hall. The new building will accommodate about 40 students, and it is planned to move all the men over to the south side of the campus, giving North ball over for the use of the young

APPOINTMENT OF BISHOP

The Herald's Daily

UR young rook had little respect, indeed-that some terror was afoot.

the wind took them, and they were even excepting the golden eagle him-the wind took them, and they were obliged to skim often so man the ground as almost to appear to touch it in order to get along. Rooks do not care for this kind of wind. It forces them too low down, where they cannot see danger.

Suddenly our rook swerved. Lying clean over as he fluing himself round, le looked so heavy on the wing that it care womewhat as a suprise to see this care womewhat as a suprise t

Years Ago To From The Herald Of This Date 1898 Justice McKie has gone to Eastland. O. M. Lee has sold his Alamo ranch to Eddy Bros. for $5000. The city officers are preparing to vacate the city hall building. A cold wave struck El Paso this straight and is easy to get acquainted

Rome, Italy, Jan. 18.—The pone has ratified the decision of the consistorial congregation presented by cardinal De Lai, appointing Patrick Louis McGovern as bishop of Cheyenne, Wyo, vice the right Rev. James J. Keane, who has been made archbishop of Dubuque.

That has of endeavor.

Smith's model consists of a gas envelope or balloon surrounded by a rigid frame to which planes are attached. Besides two propellors behind there is a large one in front of the cigar shaped and incidentally creates a vacuum before the long thus doing away with the extent in one country while maintaining a level in other countries. A great deal of political capital has been made out of shigh and low prices in the United States. During the tariff campaign following the enactment of the McKinley law, the Democrats made great capital over the era of high prices which followed. During the panic years of the middle 90's, the Republicans made equally as much political capital out of the era of low prices which followed the enactment of the Wilson-Gorman tariff law. At the present time the worm has turned again and the Democrats are charging the Republicans with the responsibility for consumer. How complex this has become is shown by a "poem" submitted by the literary senator from Massa, committee, of which he was calairman, investigated the cost of living. It is consumer. The lay of the ancient egg." Sand is in 10 stanzas. The first stanza is this:

AMERICAN WORKMEN LIVE BETTER THAN THOSE OF OTHER NATIONS Investigation of Living Conditions by English Foreign Office Shows America

"I am the Egg.

If you don't think th' world is gittin' had is in 10 stanzas. The first stanza is this:

"I am the Egg.

I was laid." again and the Democrats are charging the Republicans with the responsibility for the high cost of living today, just as the Republicans charged the Demo-crats with the responsibility for the low cost in the 50's. Yet an examination of the price studies made by all of the principal countries discloses the fact that prices throughout the world. of the principal countries discisses the fact that prices throughout the world, as well as those in the United States, have fluctuated. While the decline may not have been as sharp in the middle 90's in Europe as it was in the United States, and while the increase has not been as and while the increase has not been as it was in the United States, and while the increase has not been as it was in the United States, and while the increase has not been as it was in the United States. States, and while the increase has not been as great since 1900 in Europe as in the United States, it is still the gen-eral rule that price movements have been international rather than na-

THE HERALD

(All communications must bear the signature of the writer but the name will not be published where such a request is made.)

their own ample resources. Possibly some plan might be devised to call these cases to account in some way directly to the fund for such special share of the benefits they may receive

LETTERS TO

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN relative trend of prices from 1896 to 1892 in the United States and Canada. From 1890 to 1895 prices in the United States were higher than those in Canada. At the latter point on the graphic chart, the dotted line representing the United States goes below the black line representing the United States goes below the black line representing the United States in the United States and fall to any great of the United States than in Canada, in the main they have averaged about 2 percent bigher.

One of the things which the investigations of all nations agree is that prices do not rise and fall to any great extent in one country while maintaining a level in other countries. A great

Each following stanza continues to grow, somewhat on the order of the house that Jack built, until the tenth.

the egg From the man who took the egg to the station

For the farmer who owned The hen that laid the erg International Inquiry Planned.

If present plans do not miscarry, one of the results of the meeting of the high cost of living.

If got ptomaine poisoning."

Temorrow—Remedies proposed for high cost of living.

15 next. The condition of affairs paralyzes progress and does more than any other one factor to keep the land idle and the whole situation one of waiting if not of actual suspense and change. This brings us fairly to the question of whether or not the community at large bas any direct interest in a bond issue even though its benefits accrue first to a special class. If the proposed bonds would, as seems probable, cost no individual taxpayer more than a few cents per $1000 on his stake in the county whatever it may be. I believe it would be generally conceeded that to release the valley and city of El Paso from the incubus of suspense would return presently to every taxpayer, much more, directly or ladication to the lates of the lates the valley of indicating the lates the valley or lates the valley of the valley of the lates the valley of the lates the valley of t

THE BRIGHTER SIDE.

Some one committed a murder last But hundreds of thousands were kind.
For the wrong that is done is forever in sight.
To the good we are fearfully blind.

Some one deserted his children today. But millions of fathers are true. The bad deeds are not such a fearful

Compared to the good that men do. Somebody stole from his brother inst-

night, But millions of honest men live; Some one was killed in a murderous fight, fight.

But thousands are giad to forgive
Their brothers the wrongs that were fancled or real;
The crimes that we hear of each day
Compared to the good deeds that we could reveal
Make not such a fearful array. would answer the men who stand up and deciare

That the world is much given to vice.
That the sum of man's crimes every day everywhere Can't compare with man's sweet sac-

That for every black soul there are thousands pure white,
The sum of the sinners is few.
And I know in my heart that the world is all right,
When I think of the good that men do.
— Detroit Free Press.

community as a whole and transferred to some other community as a whole. The entire amount would go for labor, would be paid out to laborars in the valley and would flow back to the community at large through the usual channels, so that when all is asid and done the questions to decide new are these:

A. Is the proposed plan of protection the best one open to us?

B. Is it actually going to prove effective in curbing the river?

C. Will it be applied before the flood comes to every dangerous curve in the cultivated valley, so that the benefit will be equally distributed and not (Continued on Page 3.)

(Continued on Page 8.)

Dorothy Dix's On The Motherinlaw Ques-

If my correspondents are any cri-terion of human wee, the source of most of the misery in the world is is a household angel compared to the husband's mother.

Every day I get a dozen or more fat, thick letters in which women relate the persecutions they endure from their motherinlaws. One writes.

"I have been married some little time. I love my husband, and my home would be ideally happy if it wasn't for the interference of my motherinlaw. I attend to my husband's bookkeeping and stenographic work, being at his office all day, and then hustle home in the evening to prepare the meal, and after dinner do my housework. Sometimes it is nearly before the came into the family. The of M. Lies has sold in Alamo vanch to Polycy lines for 1300s. Comparison of the comp

the motheriniaw.

For ages the caricaturist and the humorist have represented his wife's mother as driving a man to drink, but saccording to the women who tell me their sad, sad stories, the wife's mother is a household angel compared to the husband's mother.

Byery day I get a dozen world is said so brazehold in their monopely of their husband's mother.